

Adam Fronczak

Web Developer / Tampa, FL
727-871-9299 / Fronczak.Adam@gmail.com

Portfolio

adamfronczak.com
github.com/afronczak

About

I'm a Junior Developer from Tampa who began coding from tutorials and grew into a full-time developer at The Iron Yard St.Pete. Currently I am expanding my Rails and JS skills as a freelancer to help small businesses and nonprofits with their site/applications. I enjoy getting out in the Bay area's meetups and presentations and love getting to work with other developers.

Languages

Ruby
jQuery
JavaScript
Ruby on Rails
HAML & SASS
HTML & CSS
Bootstrap
Postgres
SQL

Projects

Right Meow!

This is the capstone project of the Rails course, it incorporates mapping from the Leaflet library, the rails gem Geocoder, and beautifully responsive front end that incorporates flat design illustrations.

TIY Glossary

CRUD style app that allows students to sign-up, add, and edit terms and categories. This app was the first attempt at using authorization as well as incorporating jQuery to modify the DOM.

Brickhaus

This app demonstrates the use of collaboration through Github. We worked remotely throughout a weekend to build this app to replicate the UI and database functionality of sites such as Zillow and Trulia.

Skills & Proficiencies

Knowledgeable of MVC architecture, Relational Databases, Git for Version Control. I use tools like Slack, Github, and Atom to communicate and solve problems every day.

Education & Work

- The Iron Yard - St. Petersburg, FL - Fall 2016
Back End Engineering
- Bausch and Lomb Jan 2014 - July 2016
QC Microbiology - Technician III
- University of South Florida - Fall 2013
Health Sciences Bsc.

